RF MICRONEEDLING

RF microneedling combines traditional microneedling with radiofrequency energy to stimulate collagen at deeper levels. It can tighten skin, reduce fine lines, and improve scars and texture — offering more dramatic results with minimal downtime.

What to Expect

RF microneedling is typically completed in under an hour. A topical numbing cream is applied for comfort, and you may notice mild redness or swelling with light restrictions for the first day. For best results, patients should avoid retinol and other exfoliating products for several days before and after treatment. Most return to normal activities quickly.
